

A photograph showing the interior of a custom-built computer case. The case is black and has its side panel removed, revealing the internal components. A motherboard is visible with several RAM sticks installed. A power supply unit is located at the bottom. Various colored cables (red, yellow, black, white) are connected to the components. The system is placed on a wooden surface.

aleph 5.e

3
244

